General Kuroki.

turned to Tokyo on Saturday morning, arriving at Shimbashi at 10:39. General Kuroki was one of the most popular leaders in this war. He landed in Korea in March last year, and won the first and brilliant victory for the Army at the Yalu. The gallant and arduous fight of his army at Motienling, Yangtseling, Teehling, Liaoyang, Shaho and Mukden, are too well known to the public to need recapitulation here.

Stanford of plotting to secure a fee from the estate, says that Mrs. Stanford died a natural death in Honolulu and that the result of the investigation made to determine this fact will soon be made public."

MORE INSURANCE MONEY RETURNED.

NEW YORK, January 2.—A report is in circulation here that President McCall has resigned as President of the New York Life Insurance Company and that he has refunded two hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars given by him to Attorney Hamilton to be expended in influencing legislation to secure certain favors for the big life insurance companies.

NEW YORK PRINTERS STRIKE.

NEW YORK, January 2.—The Typographical Union of New York has decided upon a strike. All the printers of the city will walk out today and demand an eight hour day.

The names of the gallant General Kuroki and able strategist Major-General Fujii will remain in history for ever.

The party was welcomed at Shimbashi by Prince Fushimi, Prince Kitashirakawa, the Ministers of State, Generals and Admirals, and large numbers of illustrious personages. Baroness Kuroki and her children were also present.

Proceeding from Shimbashi to the Imperial Palace, the General was enthusiastically cheered by large crowds of people. As usual fire works and a salute were discharged at Hibiya Park.

At the Imperial Palace the general and his staff officers were received in audience by H. M. the Emperor, and subsequently by H. M. the Empress. They were then entertained at a feast given by the court.

On the occasion of his triumphal entry into Tokyo, General Baron Kuroki submitted the following report to H. M. the Emperor:

"More than twenty months have elapsed since your Majesty's humble subject, Tamesato, having been appointed to important duties in the war, landed, at the head of our Army, at the mouth of the Taidong-gang. During that period, we have moved always in districts in Korea and Manchuria where the nature of the ground was rugged and population sparse. That in more than fifty battles, great or small, fought against the powerful and gallant enemy, we, in spite of our shortcomings, could carry out Your Majesty's orders without grave mistakes, and that we, having rendered our humble services, can return victorious and submit a report on the military operations to Your Majesty, is solely due to the illustrious virtue of Your Majesty and to the protection of the Imperial ancestors, of which we are profoundly mindful. "I beg here to submit to Your Majesty a separate report on the military operations of our army and a sketch of the system of supplies and sanitation.

"For the successful carrying out of our duties in the present campaign, we owe much to the strategy and direction of the higher headquarters, the co-operation and assistance rendered by other forces on land and sea, assiduity of various auxiliary organizations, and the united assistance rendered by the authorities and people.

"In informing Your Majesty of the completion of our duties relating to the Imperial Order, Your Majesty's humble subject, Tamesato, begs to express his deepest regrets for having lost in the battle field so many of Your Majesty's loyal and gallant subjects, who are unable to attend this auspicious ceremony.

"The above is most respectfully submitted to Your Majesty. "TAMESATO KUROKI, Baron, "Commander of the First Army."

The Emperor was pleased to grant the following message to General Kuroki:

"Since, at the beginning of the war, you, commanding the First Army, defeated the enemy at the mouth of the Yalu, you have achieved illustrious successes in battles at different places and faithfully fulfilled Our desire. Now, having personally heard your report on the progress of military operations, We renew Our assurance of appreciation of your meritorious services and of the loyalty and gallantry of your officers and men."

On the same occasion the Emperor presented a gold watch with the Imperial crest and a sum of money to General Kuroki, and a suzuri baki (box for Japanese ink) to Prince Kuni.
